Welcome to Administrative and Financial Management (AFM) Highlights! Our goal is to provide current, relevant information and I believe you will find the Highlights a useful resource. We welcome your comments and suggestions for improvement!

AFM is dedicated to providing world class customer service to the USDA Research, Education, and Economics (REE) agencies. Those agencies are the National Institute of Food & Agriculture (NIFA), Agricultural Research Service (ARS), Economic Research Service (ERS), and the National Agricultural Statistics Service (NASS). Each of these agencies plays an important role in supporting the USDA mission. USDA is the "People's Department" and I am proud to say that I am part of it.

AFM manages the administrative business processes so these agencies can focus on their important and critical missions. AFM's greatest resource is our people, and through them we achieve our number one goal – excellent customer service. Whether you read our Highlights as a customer or an employee, I want you to know I am committed to working together to deliver world class service focused on results and exceeding customer expectations.

Jim Bradley

"Each of us is responsible for what AFM is today, and what we can be tomorrow!"

AFM Mission Statement:

To work in partnership with the REE agencies, their customers and partners, and the public by meeting their administrative and financial management needs and interests through delivery of responsive and effective services .

SPOTLIGHTS!

AFM External Survey Status :

In March of this year, AFM invited customers and employees to participate in an AFM Customer and Employee Survey. The intention of this survey was to help us identify specific things we do well and to identify any areas where we have room for improvement. As a result of this survey, AFM Highlights was created and implemented in FY 2010 as a tool to assist with communications across the REE Mission Area.

We conducted employee Focus Groups in July, 2009 who helped us identify action highlights. Our first AFM Business Council meeting (consisting of AFM GS-14s) met in October, 2009 to review focus group issues and develop specific recommendations for addressing service concerns or gaps. AFM plans to convene a series of AFM Customer Workshops that will include representatives from each REE agency to help us assess the value of our draft recommendations for enhancing the customer's experience when interacting with AFM. This will help us to ensure that our goals are aimed at the results you expect.

H1N1 Planning

H1N1 flu is again in the news and plans are being made to ensure business continuity in the event of a pandemic flu event. We are bringing existing pandemic plans current to update contact information and flu information sources.
